

Mark Mills graduated in 1972. He then attended the University of Iowa, graduating in 1976. He received a Master's Degree in Journalism from the University of Maryland, then a Master's Degree in English from St. Cloud State University in Minnesota. He served as Bureau Chief for NewsLink in Washington, D.C. He had a book published in 2003, inspired by the missing Johnny Gosch. He became a professor at St. Cloud University and served as chairman of the Mass Communications Department. Mark and his wife had three sons, then adopted a Korean baby. A few years later they adopted three children from Peru, South America. Mark coached football for ethnic minority students for seven years, and bought their required equipment. He also most graciously, helped his graduates be placed as news anchors.
